

Bhutan Diaries

Punaka
Dzong
14.05.17

Cover Sketch: Sanjeev Joshi

Travel tales by Urban Sketchers Pune

Hemant Mahajan

It was a fun tour done for the as it was the first time there was a combination of Sketching, Trekking, Photography, Watching, Sharing and Caring...

Tiger's Nest was the highlight and during the trek, though it was raining, I did sketch with watercolors and enjoyed a lot.

While going to the top, I was totally unaware that my shoes had flattened soles. When I started coming down it was just impossible for me to come down. And due to overconfidence I had not taken a stick at the base camp before climbing. But God sent somebody with a stick- and that was MILIND... and because of him I could reach safely to base camp again. Many thanks to Milind for caring enough. Many thanks to Sanjeev as I was able to watch the technique of watercolor /sketching as a backbencher in the car seat. Thanks to Dr.Panse for sharing his humorous side... And I have taken valuable tips from Ramnath on photography so thanks for that too...

May Partak. way to Pheunending from Pavo.
16/5/2017